The red hearts were thrown about the city yesterday profusely. We had been assured that these signs of a secret organization had heer abandoned; or that the party that used them formerly was open as other parties are; but these signals of distress scattered about discredit all such protonses. Sensible and patriotic men ought to see that all such expedients are as unprofitable in the long ran as they are unworthy of freemen. They remind us only of the dark and bloody days of revolution, and ill comport with the open maniy action of froemen who are expressing their preferences for a public servant. Such expedients disgust men of sober sense who properly appreciate our institutions. They have repelled men from a par y that uses them, and will becommore and more odious the longer they are used.

We understand that the white heart with a black ercar en it was also employed, which gives notice to come armed. All was peace and quietness, and public opinion londly demanded peace; and, of coarse, suca a signal, with such a mean ing, ought to subject the persons guilty of its dis tribution to the execuation and soom of all respectable men.

We do not impute such deeds to the American party in mase; for they would not he guilty o' such an ontrage, but the fact shows the restlesand lawices material that had to be controlled: and it shows what perils any community has to most in tolerating such expedients in political action. Haman nature is not quite saintly enough to he trusted with such vicious expedients sane tioned. Tany are too liable to be ahused by mer who love riot and disorder, and feast on the misch of they work to seciety.

It is too late now for effect. The stery is told but it is time for men to reflect seriously on the past. We have had new elements in American politics, victors we have always insisted they wers, and the public will ne doubt conclude that they are not only victous, but exceedingly unprofitable.

Konneth Raynor and J. M. Botts have each written a letter, advising the people of Pennsylvania to vote the Union ticket; that is the common ticket for Fremont and Fillmore. This is pratty well for Southern men. It is well the carvass is over, and the hope of spoils at an end : for time and good chances would have taken the leaders of factions in the South over to Fremont, body and breaches.

AN INTERESTING INCIDENT -At the Democrat. io mosting at West Castor, Pa, a few days since, an incident occurred which left a lasting impression upon all who witnessed it. In the growd was a man who were a Fillmore badge, and who, for a long time, persistently followed James B. Clay He ascended the platform white Ciay was speak ing, and, despite the reministrances of those present, crowded his way up to within a few feet of him, gazing all the while with an air of the miss carnest attention noon his countenance After Mr. Clay left the stand, he still followed him, despite all obstacles, apparently determined, at all hazards, to remain to his immediate vicinity. fnese movements became so marked, that som persons who had read Mr. Clay's speech in Phila delphia, in which he alluded to the threat made against his life, in case he acoke in Pennsylvania opportunity of confronting Mr. Clay, face to face when his real object was made clearly apparent.
"Sir," said he "I love your father; I would have

She desired it, because of all the lead while be lived. But if you loved my father, and cherish the principles he adhered to, your duty clearly is to vote the Democratic State and National tickets." Tears trick led down the cheeks of the anxions inquirer, as he replied: "I will." Moorise Justice .- During my absence, two daring crimes have been commuted. A sheriff stole one of the Sultan's horses from the midst of the camp. The Sultan sentenced him to lose his head. He then put in the plea of his hirth. "Then," said the Sultan, "ent off his right hand, that he may be disabled from disgracing his blood in this way in future." There is no executioner; the hatchers are hound to perform this duty. The chief Jawish and chief Mussulman butcher heing called, they offered for a subtitute by a sort of public auction, the crier commences in this way: "Who will cut off a head (or a hand) for a dollar!

A tab of tar was brought, the black hacked off the hand in a harry, and, on dipping the stamp into the tar, it proved to be cold. He had, how-

The sheriff was then jot go. In the other case, the cniprit, a man from the interior, had killed a lad who was plowing, and carried off his cattle. The Sultan said to the mother of the lad: "Excuse his life, and take one mother of the lad: "Excuse his life, and take our mother of the lad: "Excuse his life, and take our hundred dollars." She said: "I want the life of him who took the life of my son." The Saltan three times repeated his question, doubling his of-fer. She said: "I ask what the law gives me, and the Saltan to execute." The fer. #### The Election in Louisville.

The election passed off yearerday without any serious d fi ul'y at the polls. There weren fer little knock-downs at some of the precipets, but amany of the German citizens had acted upon the advice given them by some of their "particular Know-Nathing fliends," left the city some days before the election-of source, they did no vote, Many others who remained la the clts kept their houses, and would not go to the polls While there was no open hostility and direct persecution of the foreigners at the First and Second ward precinete, at II there was a species of disgraceful e night inaugurated for the purpose of Intimidating the adopted citizans and it succeeder quite effest ally. F rinstauce, in the First war--a ward as thoroughly Democratic as the Fourth ward was Whig, under the old organization of parties-we find a mejority against the Democratic party of one handred and ninety-four votes. Who orn, for a mement, believe that the untrammellos sentiment of the people was expressed through the ballot bex in that ward? We know the ward to be D mouratie by three to one against it. Dress Warm—Begin Now.—Our climate is changeable. Pleasant and charming weather soon parses into raw and cold-taking days, which, unless provided against, are most diseastrons to the besith of the people. But the women—the young laddes—are the most exposed. Pride makes them the most insensible and foolish beings which claim anything of reason and prudence. They dress to be sick, and half of them are, because they despise thick and warm clothing. Away with such noneense, men and women, and prepare for the change of season. Better be healthy, beautiful, and robust, than farblonable, thin-shood, and consumptive took. Then dress warm Begin now! Pat away your wafer understandings and summer trappings, and betake yourselves to thick, warm, sensible, and protesting clothing, such as sound-minded men and women ought to choose.
